World Book Day – Thursday 3rd March

The annual World Book Day celebration is once again upon us. We'll be celebrating World Book Day this year as we normally do, by sharing amazing books with children, sharing our love of books with children and completing a whole host of amazing activities with the children throughout the day. World Book Day is not a day for 'dressing up' in whatever costume the supermarket has on sale the night before the day itself, it's about developing a love and deep joy of reading; something my team and I hold as one of our deepest values. I'll be sharing a story time with the whole school during a part of the afternoon, reading an extract from one of my favourite children's book and I know that my colleagues have been busy planning lots of amazing activities for the children to take part in during the day. We can't wait!

SPS Achievements this week

Ready Respectful Safe – going above and beyond our high expectations

Pre-School – All of the children have been excited to return to school this week. Corin and Edward have been ready to listen and learn and are always first to come and sit on the carpet at our focused learning time

Reception – In Reception, Eleanor has been showing real kindness this week by helping some of her nursery friends to balance during outdoor learning time. We have been finding out about the UK and Eleanor was elected as the class Prime Minister! With the help of other children, she thought of some very sensible rules

Year 1 and 2 – Arthur - for excellent hard work in his learning this week. Arthur has been very enthusiastic and ready to learn. He has worked independently and confidently on some really tricky Maths too. Great work, Arthur!

Year 3 – Reuben - for working hard at all times, and demonstrating enthusiasm about sharing his ideas with the class and Jacob- for great focus and a positive attitude towards learning

Year 4 – Georgina, Elijah and Isla - impressed with their ability to engage, question, challenge and ask for help

Year 5 – Zac for being an encouraging and supporting partner in each and every lesson

Year 6 – Lacey and Eliza – for organising the library and classroom books beautifully

Special Head Teacher mention – Alfie – year 6 – Alfie came to see me with his English book this week. He wanted to show his most recent piece of writing; it was utterly spell binding! Alfie, you should be very very proud of this piece of work, well done!

With best wishes,
Matt Green
